

Response Chart

	Reader 1	Reader 2	Reader 3
How does the author introduce the process s/he will be writing about? Is this an effective introduction?
Are the writer's instructions clear? Do you think you could follow these directions? Which parts might need more explanation?
Did the writer go beyond the instructions to offer an informative element? What are some of the particular informative aspects of What are the two audiences the author is addressing? What are some of the specific differences between the two sets of instructions?
What was the most effective part of the paper? Why?
What part of the paper could use some work? Why?
Write one additional substantive comment about this paper.			